EVACUATION EYED — A number of Jeffersonville residents were faced with the possible evacuation from their homes Tuesday morning after a tank of ammonia gas being pulled by a semi tractor-trailer truck overturned on State Street in the village. Work crews began pumping the ammonia gas into other trucks shortly before 11 a.m., but the threat of the dangerous gas injuring residents was still present. No one was injured when the trailer overturned shortly before 8 a.m. Tuesday.

JEFFERSONVILLE — The threat of evacuation eased late Tuesday morning for Jeffersonville residents as work crews began pumping compressed anhydrous ammonia gas from an overturned tanker in the village.

The tanker overturned shortly before 8 a.m. Tuesday on State Street (Ohio 41-N), the village's main thoroughfare. The cargo of ammonia gas was considered dangerous.

An hour after the mishap, a minor leak was detected on the underside of the tank as it rested along the side of the street in the front yard of the Leola C. McClaskie residence, 17 State St. A spokesman from Fayette Landmark Inc., reported that the situation could become critical, if the size of the leak increased.

"If that happens we will have to evacuate everyone in the area and everyone downwind," he said at the accident scene shortly after the mishap.

Although Fayette Landmark Inc., does not own the ammonia, an employee was called to the scene by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department to render advice on the corn fertilizer. The ammonia was being transported by the Propane Transport Co. of Findlay, Ohio.

The trucking company sent a crew to the scene to remove the gas. Workers began pumping the cargo from the overturned tanker to other trucks at approximately 11 a.m.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson reported that removal work was underway with no problems. He added that all residents of the vicinity and the Jeffersonville Elementary School were notified of the problem.

If the ammonia gas leak increases the residents and students would be evacuated. A siren would be sounded to signal evacuation measures, residents were told. Gordon L. McCarthy, principal of the school and village mayor, was keeping buses on standby status for possible evacuation use.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies blocked off a portion of State Street south of Park Street and rerouted traffic via Maple and Walnut streets.

While work crews were traveling to the scene, the Jeffersonville Fire Department remained on standby status.

Although the anhydrous ammonia is not flammable and there is no fear of an explosion, the village fire department was prepared to bring water to the scene.

"The ammonia has an obsession for water," a Fayette Landmark, Inc., spokesman said. "If it comes in contact with a person's skin, it absorbs all the water in that area leaving a pretty bad burn."

If the leak had become larger, water from the fire trucks would have been used to diffuse the ammonia and reduce the risk of injury.

The fertilizer is 82 per cent nitrogen and nearly void of water. It is reportedly injected into corn fields in a liquid form before planting.

The driver of the semi tractor-trailer rig, Rodney D. Cramer, 25, Findlay, was not injured in the mishap. Only the large tank, not the truck cab, overturned.

Cramer told Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy David L. Souther that the rig became unstable just before the tank trailer overturned, and mechanical problems with the wheels or axles is believed to be the cause of the mishap.

State solons continue energy probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators looking into last winter's natural gas shortage planned to hear more testimony and ask more questions today of Columbia Gas of Ohio officials.

They devoted most of an initial session Monday night to hearing testimony about what Columbia—the state's largest supplier—felt caused the shortage, and to hearing some of the company's recommendations for heading off future shortages.

Marvin E. White, Columbia's board chairman, was the leadoff witness before the Senate Energy and Public Utilities Committee. He brought along four other company spokesmen to defend its performance against major criticisms by state lawmakers and other officials.

Sen. Neal F. Zimmers Jr., D-5 Dayton, resumed his committee's investigation as members of the upper chamber returned from weekend recess to start what shapes up as a busy legislative week.

Other companies have already testified at the hearings that started several weeks ago.

Senators approved two routine bills at a brief floor session, one that updates a state law prohibiting sexual imposition on other persons, while the other delineates requirements of employers involved in the hearing of worker's compensation cases.

House members returned today to consider a bill that resulted from the natural gas shortage. It allows, but doesn't require, school officials to shift from summer to winter vacation schedules to conserve energy.

White and the other officials from Columbia contended generally that last winter's gas shortage resulted from federal regulations and environmental requirements which—combined with the coldest temperatures in state history—were responsible for Ohio's problems. The federal regulations, particularly those affecting prices, prevented development of new supplies, he said.

However, the board chairman and others reiterated their earlier contentions that a bill enacted by the legislature last year was a factor in Columbia not being able to purchase emergency gas supplies.

The bill prohibited utilities from passing along to all customers the added costs of emergency purchases for use by industry.

Subsequently, the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) ordered the utilities to survey their industrial customers—about 2,500 in the case of Columbia—to determine how many would be willing to share the emergency costs. Few were, Columbia's officials said, until it was too far into the winter and supplies were unavailable.

White told the committee the PUCO requirement "completely disrupts the company's ability to develop these supplemental gas supplies. The company has filed an application with the PUCO asking that these requirements be suspended."

The board chairman, aware that some members of the legislature are ready to defend last year's law, said he was not asking for its repeal. He only wants, he said, for the lawmakers to "review its provisions and clarify it."

Zimmers permitted the committee to pursue only what he called "clarification" questions at the Monday night hearing, reserving others until the end of the formal presentation of testimony.

White stressed that he didn't want to

Defense budget boosted

House OKs $40 billion weapons bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives is channeling an extra $44.8 million into civil defense in an effort one lawmaker says could cut U.S. casualties to 20 million in a nuclear war.

In approving a $35.9-billion weapons bill for fiscal 1978, the House boosted the civil defense budget by 50 per cent to $134.8 million. The Pentagon had requested only $90 million.

The action Monday came after Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., attacked any spending for civil defense as "a waste, ludicrous, insane. It makes me feel I'm sitting on the floor of the House in a dream. It's the height of insanity."

But backers of the move cited a need for American preparedness, particularly after the recent Soviet rejection of a U.S. strategic arms proposal.

Rep. G. William Whiehurst, -Va., said it would be "destabilizing for us to do nothing in response to the growing Soviet (civil defense) program." He argued that civil defense shelters could reduce American fatalities in a nuclear war "down to 20 million."

"It's criminal to say there's no hope" of saving lives in a nuclear war, Whitehurst added.

The procurement bill, which is $60.8 million more than President Carter requested, passed 347 to 43. Separate bills are expected to bring the 1978 defense budget up to a record $120 million.

The Senate has not yet acted on the bill. If Congress actually ends up spending the money — after authorization, separate votes are needed to appropriate the funds — it would be the most spent on civil defense since fiscal 1962, when $207.6 million was appropriated.

The House also rejected, 301 to 88, a Dellums amendment to cut U.S. troops overseas by 17,000. Although it did not specify where, Dellums and others said the troops could be withdrawn from South Korea.

Dellums' amendment would have withdrawn 17,000 of the 462,000 U.S. troops overseas and cut the total U.S. armed force of two million men and women by 50,000.

Jennings completes course

New officer discovers streets, school differ

The newest patrolman with the Washington C.H. Police Department is discovering that actual law enforcement work is much different than what is taught in the classroom.

"They can tell you anything they want to in school, but it's a different story in the streets," said Steve Jennings, who was graduated this month from the Ohio Highway Patrol Academy's basic police course. "But, I enjoy it. . . I think it's great."

The "quick decisions and judgments" a police officer is forced to make daily are the two aspects of actual law enforcement work that Jennings said cannot be taught in a classroom situation.

The 30-year-old Jennings completed the intensive 10-week course earlier this month and will now be required to work under the supervision of Police Specialist Larry Hott for eight weeks. During the first four weeks, he will be observing Hott in daily activities. In the final four weeks, Jennings will be observed by Hott.

His attendance at the basic police course was complicated by the harsh winter weather and the energy crisis. The course began Jan. 3, but was delayed for five weeks because of the weather-energy situation.

The comprehensive course is required by the Ohio Peace Officers Training Council to be completed within one year of an officer's appointment as patrolman. The peace officers training council mandates a minimum of 280 hours of instruction, but the patrol academy course requires 400 hours of instruction for graduation.

"Our department operates under the policy that there is no street work until your schooling has been completed," said Jennings, a two-year member of the local police force and former owner of a professional photography studio in Washington C.H.

The 400-hour course included classroom instruction in 110 different subject areas, rigorous physical training, two weeks of firearms training and three days of practical driving instruction.

Rep. Richard White, D-Texas, said the results could "be disastrous" and Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., said "the signal it would give is that we're getting tired; we want to get out of the picture."

President Carter has said he favors withdrawing the 33,000 U.S. ground troops from South Korea while leaving air support there. But he has not yet

Children, who will be six years old on or before Sept. 30 and has not attended kindergarten classes in the Miami Trace School District, will be expected to attend first grade next year.

Parents should bring their child's birth certificate and immunization records to the roundup in order that registration can be completed, Mrs. Slaughter said. . .

STEVE JENNINGS

Jennings, a 1964 graduate of Miami Trace High School and a U.S. Air Force veteran, joined the Washington C.H. Police Department as a jailer-dispatcher in December 1974. He was promoted to the position of patrolman in October 1976.

He becomes the second of the police department's four patrolman to complete the basic police course recently. Michael Taylor began duties as a patrolman in January following completion of the course.

James Moksela, who joined the local police force as a jailer-dispatcher last fall, started the 10-week course April 18.

After Moksela completes the course, Washington C.H. Police Chief Rodman Scott will have five patrolmen, three specialists, four sergeants, and one captain on the uniformed force.

Money to be used for new equipment

Armco workers donate $1,100 to life squad

MONEY FOR EQUIPMENT — Employees from the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Products Division plant in Washington C.H. Monday donated $1,100 to the Fayette County Life Squad as part of the firm's Founder's Day observance. The money will be used by the life squad to replace antiquated equipment, some of which is shown in foreground. Pictured are members of the local Founder's Day committee and representatives of the life squad.

Employees of the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Products Division plant in Washington C.H. became the largest single donors to the Fayette County Life Squad Monday afternoon.

A check for $1,100 was donated to representatives of the Fayette County Life Squad by the Armco Steel Corp. employees as part of the firm's annual Founder's Day observance.

Life squad officials said $959 of the $1,100 contribution will be used to replace antiquated equipment. The remaining $141 will be used toward the purchase of sophisticated radio communications equipment ordered recently by the life squad.

New equipment to be purchased by the life squad includes a $490 unit used to extract passengers from badly wrecked vehicles, a $150 metal cutter used for the same purpose, a $90 oxygen mask, a $150 hair traction splint and a $79 electronic pulse meter.

The Fayette County Life Squad is considered to be one of the more successful non-profit emergency ambulance service operations in the central Ohio area. The squad operates use "scare tactics" but felt he should warn that unless the state restrictions against emergency purchases are changed and clarified, another colder than normal winter this year could produce circumstances similar to those of last winter.

He assured the committee Columbia is "deeply concerned...and well aware of the criticism and complaints directed against it." But he pointed out that despite "the coldest winter in history, not a single home or human needs customer lost service for even one day, and no plant was without minimum gas needs."

Paul R. Bingley, Columbia's senior vice president, told Zimmers' committee that the federal delays caused cancellation or deferrals of projects which would have enabled the utility to take new customers in 1978. "It now appears new customers will not be taken until the 1980-1981 winter," he said.

Bingley labeled as "not true" charges that Columbia did not plan for colder than expected weather. "Facilities and supplies are designed to serve the coldest winter weather that can be expected in a 10-year period," he said.

James R. Lee, industrial gas utilization manager, said Columbia developed the first self help program in the nation in 1973.

'Well-killers' plan North Sea assault

STAVANGER, Norway (AP) — A team of U.S. "well-killers" maneuvered a barge alongside a drilling platform in the North Sea today as they prepared to begin the tricky operation of capping a runaway oil well.

Meanwhile, the Norwegian government appointed a blue-ribbon panel to investigate the first blowout in Norway's offshore Ekofisk oil field.

The blowout is developing into a major issue for the fall general election and oil companies were worried that the minority Labor government would cancel plans for test drilling off northern Norway, which is to begin next year.

Heavy seas and gale-force winds on Monday thwarted plans to plug the well, which has been spewing oil and gas since a blowout Friday night. The storm suddenly faded away to a southern breeze early today, allowing Texas well-cappers Boots Hansen and Richard Hattenberg to move the 400-foot, pipe-laying barge Choctaw into position.

The storm also broke up more than 80,000 acres of spilt oil. One 15½-mile-long slick stretched southeast toward Denmark 180 miles away while a second slick 6-to 10-miles-long look a more northeasterly course toward Norway, 167 miles away.

The wind changes frequently in the North Sea in the spring and the slick is expected to drift for several days and perhaps weeks before reaching shores.

The two Texans, associates of the renowned American oil well fire fighter Red Adair, must first get necessary equipment aboard "Bravo," the oil-drilling platform operated by Phillips Petroleum Co. of Bartlesville, Okla. Then they plan to clean up around the production well to reduce the danger of explosion and fire.

The well-pluggers, carrying oxygen masks and fire-resistant overalls, will have to work in a shower of brownish-red oil that is spurting 60-feet high and water from a fireboat hosing down the platform to prevent a spark from igniting the geyser of fuel.

Hussein optimistic after Carter meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jordan's King Hussein, entering his second day of talks with President Carter, says his habitual caution in assessing Middle East peace prospects is giving way to new optimism.

Carter and Hussein met for the first time Monday for talks about the role of the Palestinian Liberation Organization in any new peace efforts in the Middle East. They agreed to the need for a new Geneva peace conference this year.

At Monday's welcoming ceremony, Carter warned against underestimating the divisions in the Middle East. But after the first round of talks, Hussein said at a White House working dinner:

"Despite a feeling that I have had, which has caused me to be cautious with regard to the possibilities of real, genuine progress towards a solution in the Middle East, I have as a result of meeting with you ... felt more encouraged and more hopeful than I have for a very long time."

For his part, Carter told the king that "1977 can be a propitious year for greater strides toward permanent peace in the Middle East."

However, the President said "we recognize the difficulty of resolving the historic animosities" there. He warned that if progress is not made this year "it may be a long time in the future before we can mount such an effort again."

Hussein pledged to dedicate himself "in what remains of life to achieve a just and lasting peace." Carter lauded him as courageous and unselfish and declared, "He's our friend."

During their opening talks, Carter and Hussein discussed possible ways of admitting the Palestinians to Arab-Israeli negotiations.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the United States opposes any immediate role for the PLO so long as it does not recognize Israel's "right to exist in peace."

However, Powell said possible approaches to Palestinian representation could include some form of confederation or other link with Jordan, placing Palestinians in a Jordanian delegation, or having a single, comprehensive Arab delegation at peace talks.

A White House press notice said the two leaders also talked about territorial boundaries and the nature of the peace they would like to achieve. The notice said Carter believes Jordan "has a positive role to play" in any Middle East settlement.

State employment data shows gains

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Increasing supplies of fuel, improved weather conditions and a settlement of some key strikes helped brighten the state's unemployment picture in March compared to February.

The Bureau of Employment Services said Monday that gains in both farm and nonfarm jobs helped unemployment to drop by nearly 1.5 per cent from February to March this year.

And the picture was even brighter compared to a year ago. The state's overall jobless rate fell from 8.9 per cent of the civilian labor force in March, 1976, to 7.1 per cent in March this year, the latest for which statistics are available.

There were 334,000 people out of work during March this year compared to 401,000 in February, the bureau estimated. Total employment advanced 1.6 per cent.

Employment in manufacturing industries rose 1.3 per cent with the gain concentrated in the production of durable goods. Settlement of strikes boosted employment in motor vehicles, while recovery from February's fuel shortages accounted for increases in primary metals and stone, clay and glass products.

Construction employment rose during March from its winter low. Increased outdoor activities reflected the arrival of spring weather and sparked gains in amusement services. Seasonal factors were also largely responsible for increases in education, the bureau said.

Employment in nonagricultural industries rose during March in all of Ohio's major metropolitan areas except Canton. Employment there in March was down 8 per cent from February, a result of a strike which idled workers manufacturing household appliances and fabricated metals.

The biggest employment jump, 3.2 per cent, was in the Youngstown-Warren County area. Although non-manufacturing rose seasonally, the bureau said most of the increase occurred in factory employment. The gains were attributed to stepped-up production of automobiles and to recalls of steelworkers idled by fuel shortages in February.

In Cincinnati, employment was up .8 per cent in March. The advance was largely seasonal, concentrated in non-manufacturing areas.

Expansion in services, construction and trade boosted non-manufacturing in Cleveland during March, with manufacturing advancing .6 per cent.

Weekly earnings of production workers in the state's factories rose to an all time high of $272.06 in March. Stepped up overtime was reported by manufacturers of metal stampings, household appliances, steel and plastic goods.

The life squad, which has been endorsed by all county officials and agencies, serves all 404 square miles of Fayette County and portions of neighboring counties where the Miami Trace School District overlaps.

The contribution to the life squad finalized a three-phase Founder's Day activity by employees at the Armco Steel Corp.

The Armco Steel Corp. workers installed wheelchair ramps at all four corners of the Fayette-Court intersection Saturday and also donated office equipment to the local Junior Achievement organization Monday afternoon.

formally proposed it. During the debate, strong sentiment surfaced for revising military pensions, which now cost $9 billion a year and are predicted to go to $34 billion in the year 2000.

A hastily drawn amendment by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., to simply put all future servicemen under Congress' own, less lucrative pension plan, lost, 247 to 148.

The House approved one amendment that would require the Pentagon to give Congress 60 days' notice before closing or reducing any bases.

It also approved an amendment prohibiting military officers from accepting jobs within three years with any defense contractors they were in a position to help get contracts.

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, leveling off at its lowest level of the year.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose nearly a point in early trading.

But losers took a 4-3 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted some cautious buying after a steep drop in stock prices over the past three sessions.

Today's early prices included S.S. Kresge, up 1/4 at 28 1/4; International Telephone & Telegraph, unchanged at 33; Southern Co., off 1/8 at 16, and Schlumberger, down 1/2 at 60.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 12.47 to 914.60 for its largest loss since it gave up 17.37 last Nov. 5.

It was the lowest close for the Dow since it finished at 912.94 on Jan. 13, 1976.

Losers swamped gainers by a 4-1 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 20.44 million shares, against 20.70 million on Friday.

The NYSE's composite index lost .69 to 53 even.

Congress to move on hospital costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leading members of Congress promise to move quickly on President Carter's plan to hold down hospital costs, but a heated debate is expected in both the House and Senate.

In a message Monday to Congress, Carter proposed that total increases in hospital bills be limited to about 9 per cent a year at most facilities. Hospital costs have been going up about 15 per cent a year, twice the national inflation rate.

The legislation would limit reimbursements to hospitals from all sources: Medicare, Medicaid, Blue Cross, commercial insurance and individuals.

Carter said the plan could save the public, the government and health insurance companies $2 billion the first year and $5.5 billion in 1980.

Past attempts to put a 9 per cent lid on increases in Medicare and Medicaid payments for hospital care have failed amid heavy opposition from hospitals and medical associations.

Carter wants to go a step further in limiting the prices private health insurance companies and individuals would have to pay.

Reps. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., and Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., said they will co-sponsor Carter's bill in the House. Their health subcommittees will hold joint hearings May 11 to 13.

Rogers said Monday night he may want to add a section to reward hospitals for finding ways to cut costs.

"It's quite possible the committee might want to modify the bill somewhat," said Rogers. He said he expects a lot of debate because "there is great concern in the medical field.

Speed limits turn metric

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is going to raise the speed limits on the nation's roads and highways next year to 88 or 90.

But the speed limits won't change, only the way we measure them. The government is moving full speed ahead on a change-over to metric highway signs that may cost $100 million and take five years to complete.

The most dramatic change, converting speed limit signs from miles to kilometers, is slated to take place during just 90 days in the summer of 1978.

Forty miles per hour, for instance, will become 64 kilometers per hour. The national 55 m.p.h. speed limit works out to 88.5 k.p.h., and Federal Highway Administration officials are considering rounding that off to 90 k.p.h., or about 56 m.p.h.

Home-made nuclear bomb

Groups so minded don't need much to make their own nuclear bomb. Some weapons-grade radioactive material, "A fraction of a million dollars," someone who can find his way around in the technical journals, an all-around technician able to put the know-how and materials together. That's all. This on the authority of a report just completed by the congressional Office of Technology Assessment. The chilling prospect underscores the importance of current efforts to upgrade security at U.S. nuclear facilities. The study makes another point: that the world will be safe from nuclear blackmail only if facilities worldwide are protected. The necessary tightening up is under way, but international undertakings along this line should be accelerated.

WASHINGTON CALLING...By Marquis Childs

With friends like George Meany, Carter doesn't need any enemies

WASHINGTON — With friends like that who needs enemies? This familiar question might well be put on the score of President Carter's relationship with George Meany, president forever of the AFL-CIO.

President Carter has taken some stands that required political courage. This was notably true of his position against the protectionists demanding higher barriers against the importation of low-cost shoes, which would have cost consumers in the low-income brackets anywhere from $500 million to $200 million depending on which economists provided the figures for the pro or anti side.

One result was to start the adrenalin flowing with the aged labor boss denouncing Carter. The argument that far more jobs depend on exports than can possibly be hurt by low tariffs makes no impression on Meany. He is a protectionist pure and simple and, I would add, an inflationist.

That makes it all the more curious that he should have named Meany as co-chairman of a panel to help coordinate labor and management in restraining inflation. With Meany the president named Reginald H. Jones of General Electric.

With Meany's blessing, if not active encouragement, every large-scale wage settlement since the first of the year has been inflationary. Wage increases, together with fringe benefits, have averaged 10 per cent. This is in industries certain to pass these cost increases on to consumers with a resulting rise in prices.

The Carter anti-inflation program relies heavily on voluntarism. The president had already given way on the $50 tax rebate which was naive if not downright foolish.

Aside from the difficulty of getting it through Congress, it was a concession to such anti-inflationists as Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve System, and Carter's own advisers, Secretary of the Treasury W. Michael Blumenthal and Bert Lance of the Office of Management and Budget.

As Burns has pointed out repeatedly, the wage increases have little relation to productivity. Therefore they will not result in a greater flow of goods, which might mean lower prices and more employment.

Burns is backing a proposal put forward by Rep. Stanley H. Lundine, D., N.Y., for federal support for productivity councils. In communities large and small, these would unite labor, management and government with the goal of developing human resources for greater productivity.

A former mayor of his home town of Jamestown, N.Y., Lundine initiated such a council in the area and achieved remarkable results. In the first three years of its existence, from March, 1972, to 1975, unemployment was reduced from 10.2 per cent to 4.2 per cent. The goal, as Lundine puts it, was improvement in productivity of existing industry to enhance the quality of working life.

Industries that had considered moving out decided to remain. New industries came into the area. Already in Maryland and Michigan and elsewhere communities have copied the Jamestown model. Burns in a letter to Lundine said:

"The significant merit of your Jamestown program is its flexibility to adapt community effort to solving particular regional problems . . . federal seed money might be provided for the organization of productivity councils. These councils could help identify local problems — such as skill shortages, labor unrest, and unfavorable taxes — and design and implement corrective programs."

The Lundine proposal, co-sponsored by 50 members of the House and introduced in the Senate by Sen. Jacob Javits, R., N.Y., provides $40 million of seed money for the purposes that Burns suggested. It would give a boost to centers already working on the quality of life and its relationship to production. If this takes hold it could be a constructive move to help stop the headlong pace of rising prices.

In his courageous doomsday address on the energy crisis, President Carter said parts of his energy program still to be unveiled would be inflationary. An offset is needed and the Carter anti-inflation program hardly comes under that head.

If Meany & Co. had their way, members of the high-wage unions, a relatively small percentage of the total working class, would occupy a special privileged position eventually protected by higher tariff walls.

Whether the unions in autos, rubber and oil will now support, or at any rate not oppose, the drastic measures essential to curing the energy crisis is a key question. If they join the giant corporations that seem almost certain to use every possible means to prevent any encroachment on their domain, the chances of success will be slim indeed.

One in 9 doctors reported 'impaired'

CHICAGO (AP) — The chances are nearly one in nine, says the Illinois Medical Society, that your doctor is an alcoholic or narcotics addict.

And the American Medical Association, realizing the seriousness of the problem, is encouraging state medical societies to start campaigns to detect "impaired" doctors. The Illinois Medical Society announced formation of its detection program at its state convention this weekend.

"This is a very serious problem and for the first time we are really beginning to search out and treat 'sick' physicians," said Dr. James W. West, who is chairman of the IMS Panel for the Impaired Physician.

The president of the AMA, Dr. Richard E. Palmer, estimated earlier this year that about 17,000 of the 408,000 doctors — one in 24 — registered nationally are "impaired."

But the IMS believes the figure is more like one in nine.

The state society estimates that of the state's 14,630 practicing physicians, 11.5 per cent may have a severe drinking problem, while 584 Illinois doctors are narcotics addicts.

Alcoholism and narcotics addiction in the medical profession are "higher than average because of the pressure doctors are under, dealing with life and death situations every day," Frank Chappell of the AMA said in an interview Sunday. He added that doctors have a greater than average chance of becoming drug addicts because they have easy access to drugs.

But patients shouldn't worry too much, Chappell said, "because most of these guys don't do anything until after office hours."

Many doctors are alcoholics or drug addicts and don't know it, Chappell said.

"The big problem in this area is to get the doctors to realize they have a problem," he said. "What we've got to do is identify these doctors and make them aware of their problem before they do any damage."

Chappell said that both the AMA and the IMS encourage doctors and relatives of doctors with problems to tell their local medical societies.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Wheeler's mama:

10-4 and trust the Lord

DEAR ABBY: I certainly identified with MIKE'S WIFE, the lady whose husband drives 200 miles a night to deliver newspapers and has had two serious accidents in five years. She said Mike has been driving for 20 years, and whenever he left, she was a nervous wreck until he returned home safely. She also said she's begged him to change jobs, but he refused.

Maybe I can give her a different point of view: My husband, David, is also a truck driver. He drives an 18-wheeler and is gone for a week to 10 days at a time. We've been married for six years, and the first year I was a nervous wreck if David wasn't home when I expected him. I'd find myself crying and shaking and planning his "funeral."

It finally dawned on me that if the good Lord decided to take David, He would take him, and no amount of worrying on my part would change things.

From then on, every time David leaves on a trip, I pray to God to protect him from harm and get him home safely. Then I rest easier, knowing that my David is in God's hands.

Thanks, Abby, for being there. DAVID'S WIFE IN ALABAMA
DEAR WIFE: And thanks for reminding us that there is enormous power in prayer. Read on for a letter from another trucker's wife:

DER ABBY: I married Luke, a wonderful guy who drove a truck long distance for a living. Sometimes he'd be away from home a whole week.

After four years and two babies, I begged Luke to quit that job because I worried constantly that he'd get killed on the road, and I wanted him home every night. I pleaded and nagged until he finally quit his job and took a truck driving job in town. It didn't pay nearly as well, but at least he was home every night. He stayed with it for a year, but I knew he wasn't really happy. He never complained, but I could tell he missed the road.

Then we had a long heart-to-heart talk, and I agreed to let him go back to his old job— long-distance trucking. Overnight his happy attitude returned! I'd by lying if I said I didn't miss him, but I would rather have a husband who's happy when he IS home, than one who isn't quite so happy but is home all the time.

LUKE'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Your Luke is lucky to have you for a wife.

DEAR ABBY: How did you get so far ahead in your answer to that man who wrote to say that his mother (a former school teacher) returned all his letters after having "corrected" his spelling and grammar with a red pencil?

He was hurt to the point of writing to you, and you told him that his mother was doing him a favor by pointing his mistakes!

Good grief! You should take a poll to find out how many mothers get letters regularly from their married sons. And of those who do, how many really care if the letters contain a few errors in spelling and grammar.

I would have advised that man to quit writing to that crab of a mother for six or eight months. Then she might get the message and toss out those red pencils. C.J. IN FORT PIERCE, FLA.

DEAR C.J.: Sorry, but your suggestion is no improvement on my answer. I did advise him to let his mother know that her red pencil corrections irritated him and to please knock it off.

Try to control a tendency to worry over personal problems. Help is on the way! In fact, you should not only find assistance in your current dilemma, but also gain insight into how to prevent future ones.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
A day in which your innately active and energetic self will be highly stimulated. Don't expect all to share your enthusiasm, however.

Your best stock in trade is your warm personality; also your creative talent. Both should make this a fine day for you — IF you use them smartly.

PISCES

Mixed influences. Organize talents and know-how to promote your interests more efficiently. Some personal plans may have to be deleted from your program at present.

YOUR BORN TODAY: Taureans excel in the arts, music, as writers, promotional and advertising experts; also as scientists (especially in the medical field), inventors and teachers. You are extremely ambitious, but not necessarily in a material way. Your striving is for extraordinary attainment — and you usually achieve it, no matter what your field. Your personality is a quiet one, reserved and almost shy at times, so you often amaze others with your obstinacy when opposed. In fact, you can be downright stubborn at times. Try to be more flexible.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television April 26
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard Pryor, the comic, actor and writer, has a comedy show coming up on NBC on May 5. "The Richard Pryor Special?" The question mark led to a question of how the show came to be. "Trial and error," Pryor explained in an interview on the porch just outside the NBC commissary. Over the distracting gagging and choking of the lunch crowd, he elucidated.

"Burt Sugarman called me up one day and wanted to sell me one of his cars, which cost $380,000. I said, 'I can't afford that kind of money.'"

Sugarman, executive producer of the show, was seated next to Pryor. He commenced chortling, indicating the possibility Pryor was off on a flight of comic fancy.

"He broke it down for me," Pryor continued. "He told me if I work hard, I might be able to afford his automobile. And I really want this car bad. That's how the special came about."

He was asked if he got the car in advance.

"No, but they will free my mother if the show is good," he said. "She's currently down in the basement at NBC."

If the show gets bad ratings, what happens with the car?

"Well," mused Pryor, "it's going to be tough for Mom, let's put it that way."

Pryor, who got industrial-strength raves for his acting in "Blazing Saddles" and "Silver Streak," is reputed to have, well, a weird mind.

For example, in his coming special, he will depict Gen. Idi Amin of Uganda making a rebuttal to an NBC editorial.

And it is said that early in his career he did his standup comedy routine one night crouched beneath a piano. His version:

"I wasn't doing so good, so I just got under the piano and hid from the audience."

He was asked how the night club audience reacted. And said:

"I don't know. Some guy started playing the piano."

Pryor, holder of a 1973 Emmy award for writing a Lily Tomlin special, served as head writer on his coming show, co-written by Bob Ellison, Rocco Urbisci, Alan Thicke and Paul Mooney.

He was asked if he has other writing projects in the works.

"Yes," he said. "I wrote a letter to the IRS, let 'em know the money will be on time." Any answer yet? "No, they're waiting until April's over. And then they're going to respond. In kind."

Pryor went serious all of a sudden to praise, with nothing held back, all those who helped him put his show together. He gave a quick grin when asked if a new movie is in store for him.

"Yes, I'm going to do a ski movie," said the 36-year-old ex-paratrooper from Peoria, Ill. "I'll play Clint Eastwood. I'm going to be the man who skied down the Bank of America."

Sheriff says he's cleared

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Warren County Sheriff Roy Wallace told a press conference Monday that a state auditor's examination has cleared him of charges of misuse of funds.

Saying "there is nothing sinister about my jail," Wallace invited reporters to tour the county jail.

Wallace vowed to file suit over a series of newspaper articles that triggered the investigation. "It was merely an attempt at political assassination," said Wallace, referring to the investigation launched by reports in The Cincinnati Enquirer.

He handed out copies of the audit, which covered two and a half years from March 1, 1974 to Nov. 30, 1976.

Wallace said he "can see now it might do more damage for me to remain silent." He said recent charges by inmates and jail personnel that they feared for their safety has "hurt law enforcement efforts in Warren County."

The latest controversy grew out of charges by a female inmate that Wallace and other jail officials counseled her to lie to a special grand jury investigating internal operations of the department.

The inmate, Becky Syphers, mailed a letter to Warren County Common Pleas Court Judge William W. Young, expressing fears for her safety and asked to be taken out of the jail.

Human cannonball sues for privacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even a self-proclaimed Human Cannonball has a right to privacy, says Hugo Zacchini, who wants the Supreme Court to decide that television news cameras can't record his 15-second act without his permission.

The nation's highest court was told Monday that a Cleveland television station should not have been protected by its First Amendment right to gather the news when it filmed Zacchini's entire act for use on a news program.

In the act, Zacchini is shot from a cannon into a net some 200 feet away. His famous circus family has boasted a Human Cannonball among its members for more than 50 years.

"The news media can't come in and under the guise of the First Amendment capture a performer's entire act," argued Cleveland lawyer John G. Lancione.

He said that Zacchini has a "right to publicity" — a cross between a property right and the right to privacy.

Under Ohio law, a performer has a right to exclusive control over the publicity given to his performance. What the high court has to decide is to what extent the news media is allowed to "invade" the performer's right in pursuit of a "legitimate public interest."

The court's decision, expected before the end of its current term in June, could break new legal ground in the area of free press-privacy tensions.

After the film of Zacchini's short flight at the Geauga County Fair was shown on the television station, Scripps-Howard Broadcasting Co.'s WEWS, the performer sued Scripps-Howard for $25,000.

The Ohio Supreme Court eventually ruled that the appropriation of Zacchini's publicity for his act was an invasion of his privacy, but that the station's First Amendment privileges barred recovery of any money damages.

TLC FOR: OUTDOOR FURNITURE

It's summer when redwood, hardwood outdoor furniture appears on lawns and patios. This 1977 outdoor season will see a new 44-inch square dining table with benches available in redwood. Another big item will be aluminum furniture with vinyl straps. IF WE ARE BUYING OUTDOOR FURNITURE OF REDWOOD WHAT ARE SOME CHECK POINTS?

Redwood lumber used in basic frames of seating pieces and picnic (barbecue) sets should be at least 1 1/2 inches thick and surfaces should be smooth. Top quality redwood will have a very clear grain and no knots. Redwood furniture may be stained with a penetrating sealer, not just a top coat, to preserve the wood. It should be stained only if it is one that has a stain as well as a sealer. Penetrating sealer stain provides depth of color rather than a flat mat finish and allows the grain of the wood to show through clearly. Redwood falls in the medium to low price range.

WHAT ABOUT CARE OF REDWOOD, HARDWOOD?

Keep redwood frames clean. Remove soil and stains as quickly as possible. Redwood stained by soft drinks, etc., can be bleached with an application of oxalic acid or chlorine bleach and rinsed thoroughly. Bleaching should be done when finish is off, not on top of finish. A good hosing is usually all that's needed to keep frames clean. At the beginning of the season, a new coat of penetrating sealer stain should be applied. This is usually available where you purchase your redwood furniture or at a paint store.

In areas where there are extreme temperatures and heavy snows, it is advisable to store redwood furniture under shelter or at least cover it. Since redwood is a soft wood, bolts and other fasteners should be tightened periodically so they remain snug but do not over tighten.

Hardwood swings, benches, and seats should be under shelter in cold months. In summer, they require an occasional hosing and an application of auto wax to protect the finish.

RATTAN IS NOW COMPETITIVE IN A RANGE OF OUTDOOR CASUAL FURNITURE. WHAT IS RATTAN?

Rattan is a solid, vine-like wood ranging from a few millimeters to about three inches in diameter. Rattan core is the center of small diameter rattan often woven for use as chair backs or trim. Peel (also called cane) is the outside skin of rattan that has been peeled off and split into uniform strands and woven (while wet) into chair seats and backs. It is also used for wrapping joints on rattan furniture. Rattan chairs, tables, etc., used outside may be protected with a thin coat of varnish or shellac and should never be left outside during rains. Furniture salesmen recommend rattan be used on the patio to protect it from weather. Rattan is in the high to medium price range.

HOW SHOULD WE CARE FOR RATTAN?

A routine dusting of rattan furniture is necessary. Like wood furniture, rattan can be wiped clean with a well wrung-out cloth that has been dipped in a milk soap and water solution. After rinsing and drying frames, apply liquid furniture wax for sheen and protection. WHAT ARE SOME WROUGHT IRON TIPS?

You will find wrought iron furniture in the medium to low price range. Many of the seating pieces have loose removable cushions, thus you can take the cushions inside for protection from the weather. You will find many of the wrought iron tables with glass tops.

WHAT ABOUT CARE OF WROUGHT IRON?

Keep wrought iron well painted to prevent rust. Should rust appear, remove it with steel wool, then paint. Paint is available in flat and glossy finish and is sometimes called "an-diron paint." Some brands are Derushers, Rust-Pleum, Tremco, and Deshler. The furniture can be hosed off or it can be wiped clean with a wrung-out cloth dipped in detergent and water solution.

WHAT ARE SOME POINTS TO CONSIDER WHEN BUYING ALUMINUM FURNITURE WITH VINYL STRAPS?

This furniture comes with tubular as well as flat straps. The tubular is more durable. There is also different weights of aluminum and vinyl available. The more durable costs more but if you buy the best quality available it will last longer because it is all rather light in weight.

HOW SHOULD WE CARE FOR THIS FURNITURE?

It is easy to care for with soap and water but the important thing is to keep it clean. Keep the dirt from grinding in and avoid harsh chemicals on the vinyl. Vinyls tend to lose their elasticity with age. The aluminum frame can be cleaned with steel wool pads with soap. Although it scratches the surface to some extent, the filaments are so fine that no damage is caused. Rub in one direction only, not with a circular motion.

WHAT ABOUT THE LIGHT-WEIGHT FOLDING ALUMINUM CHAIRS, CHAISES AND ROCKERS?

These are wonderful to carry to the beach or to use on the patio, terrace, porch or lawn. They are designed to be practical, functional, and easy to care for. Most can be washed with detergent and water and dried. The webbing on these pieces are usually made from saran.

WHAT ARE SOME TIPS ON SUN UMBRELLAS AND HAMMOCKS?

Sun umbrellas rise high on their shafts, bring bursts of color to lawn, garden, and patio. A fringe benefit, you might say, since their main objective is people-protection from the sun.

Sun umbrellas come in sizes up to 12-ribs and in a choice of styles including the double tier, classic, pagoda, conventional, and Mosque. The fabric is generally triple-laminated vinyl. Small sunshades are available that can be attached to chairs, chaises, cribs, boats, and railings. Sunshade fabrics are supported vinyl, laminated nylon, or canvas.

Nothing encourages laziness on a hot summer day more than a hammock. One manufacturer, now uses 1200 per cent Fortrel polyester for solid color hammock beds, claiming the fabric offers superior strength and sun-fastness. Canvas is the choice fabric for florals.

If you like built-in-air conditioning in your hammock, the woven natural rope style fills the bill.

WHAT IS THE BEST CARE FOR SUN UMBRELLAS AND HAMMOCKS?

Sun umbrellas can be brushed free of dust and hosed. They should be dried in open position. During windstorms they should be closed. Covers are available to protect them in storage.

Detachable hammocks can be machine washed, and should be dried on their stands to prevent wrinkling. Those attached to stands (like the folding styles) can be washed with a detergent solution and hosed to rinse. MANY OCCASIONAL TABLES, COFFEE TABLES, WROUGHT IRON TABLES AND SUN UMBRELLA TABLES HAVE GLASS OR ACRYLIC TOPS. HOW SHOULD THEY BE CARED FOR?

Acrylics are sold under the trade names "Lucite" and Plexiglas. They are light in weight and delicate in appearance, they are resistant to sharp blows and temperature changes. They can be tinted in various colors. Acrylics are lightweight, colorfast, maintenance free, no discoloration. They can be used outdoors indefinitely because their water resistance is good. Clean them with warm water and detergent.

Protect acrylic tops from lighted cigarettes, high heat, nail polish, nail polish remover, perfumes and alcohol. Do not use abrasives in cleaning as they scratch the surface. A little wax will help hide the blemish if one occurs.

Glass is simply cleaned with warm water and detergent also. WHAT ARE SOME POINTERS AND CARE SUGGESTIONS FOR TURF GRASS FOR PORCHES?

Turf grass is known as indoor-outdoor carpet. It has a waffle top rubber backing and usually green in color. It comes in different pile heights, the average about 1 1/2-inch but may also be less. It also comes in various price ranges. It is available in an olefin fiber with the brand names being Herculan or Ozite. It is easily cared for by using a broom, vacuum or the hose. After many years, the sun will eventually fade it.

80 Per Cent Defects, Age 20
Although almost all children have perfect feet at birth, by 10 years of age 50 per cent have foot defects. At age 20, when feet are fully developed, the tragic ratio of 80 per cent foot defects is reached. Doctors tell us that most of these foot defects are caused by shoes that don't fit properly. Corns, callouses, bunions, malformed toes, crippled feet — this is the life-long burden we endure for lack of proper shoe fitting and foot care during childhood.
Wise parents will find other places to economize and insist upon quality shoes, correctly fitted, and, most important, not outgrown, for their children.

Two men charged with grand theft

Two Washington C.H. men were charged with grand theft following a reported shoplifting incident Monday at the K-Mart department store, 1650 Columbus Ave.

William P. O'Keefe, 32, and Edward J. O'Keefe, 23, both of 704 Campbell St., were arrested by Washington C.H. police officers for reportedly taking a cassette tape player and a number of other items, valued in excess of $150, from the discount store.

The police department also investigated a vandalism report early Tuesday at an apartment at 209 Central Place.

Sandra S. Martin told police officers that she and Harold Dodd were at her apartment at 1:45 a.m., when Dodd's son and wife arrived. The door of the apartment was reportedly kicked in and Ms. Martin was threatened.

Police officers reported that no physical contact was made and no charges were filed. The door was valued at $75.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department is investigating the theft of a tape player from a car owned by Kevin Merritt, 646 High St.

A report was received from Don Knisley of the Custom Car and Truck Rebuilders, 2676 Kenskill Ave., that Merritt's car was entered by breaking the right door glass. The incident occurred between 9 p.m. Sunday and early Monday morning while Merritt's car was parked at the body shop for repairs.

Sun brings nice day to nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sunny skies were expected over most of the nation with cool temperatures and some rain east of the Mississippi River and in the Pacific Northwest.

The National Weather Service said a sprawling high pressure system covered much of the country from the Appalachians through the Rockies.

Most of the nation will be sunny but some showers will be scattered over Washington and northern Oregon into the northern Rockies and also over the central and northern Appalachians and the lower Ohio Valley.

Except for mild temperatures in Florida and the upper Great Lakes region, cool temperatures will prevail east of the Mississippi. Warm weather was forecast over the upper Mississippi Valley and the northern plains into the northern half of the Rockies. The rest of the nation can expect seasonal temperatures.

Local pupil set for Capital play

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Roger Allen, Jr., 1008 John St., a junior at Capital University majoring in political science, will appear in the upcoming production of "A Raisin in the Sun." The play will be presented by Capital University Theatre May 5-7 at 8 p.m. in Mees Hall Auditorium.

Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Allen, Sr., is cast as Walter Younger, the leading male role in "Raisin". Active in intramural sports, Allen is making his first appearance with the Capital University Theatre. He is a 1974 graduate of Washington Senior High School.

Dr. Richard Hossalla will direct "Raisin." Lorraine Hansberry's original drama about a black family living in Chicago in the 1950s. The play deals with the family's struggle to maintain their dignity and self-respect while trying to improve their position in the world.

Realtors approve two scholarships

The Fayette County Board of Realtors Monday voted to award scholarships to deserving seniors at Washington Senior and Miami Trace high schools this spring.

James Polk, board president, said $100 scholarships will be awarded to one graduating senior at each high school. The scholarship recipients will be selected by school officials.

In other matters, the board voted to order 500 additional copies of a booklet distributed during Private Property Week to give to Washington Senior and Miami Trace high schools for use in classes. Copies of the booklet, "The American Economic System and Your Part In It," will also be given to the Carnegie Public Library.

Beef-salmon bet made on games

DENVER (AP) — Thirty pounds of Colorado beef versus 20 pounds of Oregon salmon.

Those are the stakes Colorado and Oregon governors are wagering on the National Basketball Association semifinal playoffs between the Denver Nuggets and the Portland Trail Blazers.

The original bet was $100 straight cash but Oregon law forbids state officials from accepting $100 or more from anyone, even another governor.

The stakes were changed to 100 pounds each of beef and salmon. Same problem. One hundred pounds of either is worth more than $100.

So, Oregon Gov. Robert Straub and Colorado Gov. Richard Lamm settled on 30 pounds of beef against 20 pounds of salmon.

Carter shares elevator ride

WASHINGTON (AP) — Being President used to mean never having to ride on crowded elevators. Standard Secret Service procedure is to snag an elevator for the exclusive use of the President.

It didn't happen that way when President Carter appeared at the Capitol to tell a joint session of Congress his plans to deal with the energy crisis.

All went smoothly when Carter arrived. An elevator usually reserved for members of the House and reporters was commandeered to take Carter to the second floor House chamber.

But on his way out, somebody apparently goofed. Carter stepped onto the elevator and was followed by a crowd of photographers as well as some House employees.

One floor below, the man who has been trying to remove some pomp from the presidency emerged smiling and unscathed.

One of the critics of the energy message Carter gave to Congress and the nation is the best-known gasoline station operator in America — the President's brother, Billy.

Word from Plains, Ga., quotes Billy as saying: "I don't agree with him on the tax on gasoline. I know people too well. I'm going to drive and you're going to drive and the guy that works in my yard making the minimum wage is going to drive if he's going to go into hock to do it.... It might start hurting me a little bit, but I'm still going to drive my usual 150 to 200 miles on Saturday, Sunday, when I'm off."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe of Texas also is unhappy with the Carter energy package.

One of the ways presidential candidate Carter won Briscoe's active support in Texas was with a letter in which he promised to work toward ending price controls on natural gas.

The last few months Briscoe has made several trips to the White House to discuss the developing energy program. Each time, reporters asked the governor if Carter planned to keep his promise. Briscoe said he was certain he would.

In his energy speech, Carter proposed an increase in natural gas prices but it was far short of the deregulation sought by gas producing states.

Pressed by reporters for comment following Carter's energy speech last week, Briscoe replied, "I guess President Carter and I have different definitions of deregulation."

This strange sampling of House debate resulted when members agreed to limit their speeches on an amendment to 10 seconds:

"I rise in support of the amendment," said one congressman, who then quickly sat down.

"This is a good amendment," said another, who also hurriedly took his seat.

Another speech, quoted in its entirety, was, "We did it before, we can do it again."

Police academy experiences related at Kiwanis meeting

The Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club held its regular weekly dinner meeting Monday night in the Terrace Lounge and was presented with a program by a Washington C.H. police officer concerning his attendance at the Ohio Highway Patrol Academy.

Patrolman Steve Jennings, a Kiwanis Club member, related some of his experiences during his recent tenure at the academy.

Before applying for the patrolman's post, Jennings worked two years as a dispatcher and operated a photo studio.

He explained a person must first make application to become a police officer. Then they must take a written examination followed by a background investigation. They are required to pass a subsequent physical examination and be approved through personal interviews by the Civil Service Commission. After successful completion of the tests and interviews, they are appointed to the police force and according to state law must receive, within one year, a minimum of 280 hours of instruction at an approved school. He said the local force sends its officers to the patrol academy in Columbus which offers over 400 hours of instruction.

He said the 10-week school is divided into six different courses encompassing over 110 subjects.

Jennings said of the 34 students who were scheduled to take the course, one did not attend and two more dropped out after the third day.

The first week consisted mainly of orientation. Cadets were required to run a mile before and after breakfast. Theory classes were held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The theory classes increased during the second week. Firearms training was held in the third and fourth weeks.

The school was closed for five weeks this winter due to the energy crisis and severe weather.

Upon returning after the weather break, he said no time was lost in resuming the established schedule. In fact, he noted, during the next three weeks the classes and physical training were doubled.

By the eighth week, practical driving courses became a part of the daily routine. Participants were required to complete a 12-event driving test before graduation.

Upon graduation, Jennings was assigned as a patrolman with the local department.

The meeting was conducted by club president Tom Mossbarger who arranged the program.

George Lundberg received a seven-year perfect attendance pin from Gerald Begin.

Mike Campbell reviewed the rehearsal schedule for the upcoming teen talent show. He said this year's two-hour show will include 18 acts. The show will be held May 6.

James Oughterson was a guest with Ron Lott. Several Columbus area Kiwanis members also attended.

Ford puppy set for guide work

ROCHESTER, Mich. (AP) — For Homer LeBlond, meeting a dog was one of the great moments of his life. "I guess it sounds funny for a person my age, but I was ... choked up," said LeBlond, 46.

The North bay, Ont. man has been blind for the past 28 years, and Jerry the guide dog was special—a puppy of Liberty, the pet of former President Gerald Ford and his family.

Stale crackers offered by agency

DETROIT (AP) — Civil defense officials are asking if "Polly wants a cracker?" Or anyone else, for that matter.

They are stuck with 240,000 boxes of crackers, left from the 1960s when the federal government stocked 600 Detroit-area nuclear fallout shelters with provisions.

The 5 million pounds of crackers have since outlived their shelf life. In other words, they are rancid or stale. Civil defense officials say some will be used to feed squirrels and deer, but the rest are being offered to chicken farmers or anyone else willing to pick them up.

President Grant's father and grandmother once lived at Deerfield in Portage County.— AP

In addition to the crackers, the provisions included hard candy. The candy is still good, although somewhat tasteless by now, authorities said.

Panthers squeak by McClain, 60-50

Trace overcomes elements, defending SCOL champs

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor

The Miami Trace girls track overcame rain, cold temperatures, wind, a bad start, and the SCOL defending champions Greenfield McClain to squeak out a dual meet with the Tigers, 60-50.

Rain swept the track through most of the first hour of the meet, but later the sun began to shine in spurts as the Panthers made a comeback from a slow start.

The Trace tracksters managed only one win in the four field events and then lost two of the first three running events.

But, from then on, the Panthers won five of the remaining seven races and added that with four second places.

Gail Camstra led the point scoring again with three firsts and a second place. Camstra broke her own school record in the discus with a heave of 92 feet, four inches. That throw was only good enough for second, however, as Connie Miller of McClain, who has topped 100 feet, in the discus won the event by two feet.

Camstra also was a member of the winning medley relay and mile relay team. Her individual first came in the 440-yard run as she nipped Tanya Wise of Greenfield by less than a second.

Cassandra Delay also piled up the points with three first places. She won the mile run in a light, cold rain with a time of 6:03.6. Later, she took the 880-yard run by nearly 10 seconds. And, Delay was a member of the mile relay team.

Cherri Hixon had a pair of firsts and a third for the night. She kept up this dominance in the shot put, winning that event with a toss of 31 feet, seven and one-half inches. She also was a member of the medley relay team and then took third in the 220-yard dash.

Tia Smith had a good day with two second places complimenting her teammates. She finished second behind Delay in the mile with a time of 6:16.8 and then was behind Delay again in the 880 with a time of 2:48.9.

Sandy Hamilton was a constant thorn in the side of Trace all day, winning events when the Panthers were trying to pull away.

Hamilton won her first event in the high jump, clearing the bar at four feet, four inches. Then, she took the first running event by easily taking the 80-yard low hurdles. Hamilton came back in the 220-yard dash to take her third win of the day, nipping Trace's Vicki Bennett at the tape by .05 seconds.

The 880-yard relay team surprise to Trace coach Suellen Radabaugh. "I didn't think the girls could beat them (Greenfield). I was very pleasantly surprised." The team was comprised of Bennett, Linda Merritt, Teresa Dean and Nancy Eltzroth.

That relay win was a turning point in the meet as Trace was in the midst of its comeback at that time.

The girls will now take a breather until Thursday when they travel to Circleville to run in the SCOL preliminaries. That is the qualifying meet for the SCOL meet to be held on Saturday at Circleville.

THE EFFORT MERRITTS VICTORY — Linda Merritt of Miami Trace struggles a bit with the baton in the 880-yard relay last night. However, her struggles are in a winning effort as the Panthers pulled a mild upset by winning the race and then taking the meet from Greenfield McClain, 60-50.

Speaking at banquet

Carty levels Robinson blast

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians designated hitter Rico Carty took an undesignated swat at Manager Frank Robinson Monday, criticizing the skipper for lack of leadership during the club's current losing streak.

Carty, speaking at a dinner where he was honored as last year's Man of the Year on the club, said that a manager shouldn't rebuke his club when it's not winning.

"They talk about the leader of the team," Carty said in his characteristic thick Spanish accent. "They mention this player, that player. Who is the best leader of the team?"

As Carty spoke, Robinson was sitting next to him and also in attendance were all the 25 Indians players.

"It's the manager," Carty said, answering his own question. "When he leads, we got a ball club. Believe me, I'm telling this with all my heart."

The Dominican Republic native they call the Big Mon then added, "We need your help, Frank. If you don't help, we'll all be in trouble."

There's been plenty of introspection since the Indians dropped their sixth straight game Sunday, but none more pointed than Carty's remarks, which caught the whole team by surprise. The Indians have a 4-9 record, the worst in the American League east division.

After Carty's speech, Robinson, who is in his third year as manager, said, "Any player is entitled to say anything he wants to say about anything. That's all I've got to say about it."

General Manager Phil Seghi said that, "It sounded to me like Rico just wanted to perk up the whole ball club, all of us in the organization. I don't think he meant any harm."

Warrant out for Randle

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A warrant charging suspended Texas Rangers second baseman Lenny Randle with aggravated battery in the spring training beating of Manager Frank Lucchesi has been issued by local authorities.

Randle is charged with beating Lucchesi in Orlando as the two were discussing Randle's status with the team. Lucchesi spent seven days in a hospital.

Lucchesi had no comment on the filing of the criminal charges and also declined to comment on whether he would file civil charges.

"Once again, I'm saying no comment," said Lucchesi. "I have two years under the statute of limitations to decide on something like that and I'm not worried about it at this time. My only worry is about the Rangers playing winning baseball."

Randle reportedly was angry over losing his job to rookie Bump Wills, son of former Los Angeles Dodgers star Maury Wills.

The Rangers' 30-day suspension of Randle ends Wednesday. The club has been trying to trade Randle.

EXCHANGING GLANCES — Gail Camstra of Miami Trace exchanges a glance with Tanya Wise of Greenfield McClain in last night's meet between the Panthers and Tigers. McClain, defending SCOL champions, were edged out by Trace 60-50. Camstra won this race, the 440-yard run, and Wise finished second.

Bold Ruler, Secretariat, Seattle Slew

Arcaro compares horses

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Arcaro is impressed with Seattle Slew but he's not ready to put the family fortune on the speedster's nose in the May 7 Kentucky Derby.

You see, Eddie knew Slew's great grandpappy well.

"Seattle Slew reminds me a lot of Bold Ruler," said the one-time king of the stakes riders, winner of five Derbies, who finished fourth on the Wheatley Stable star at Churchill Downs exactly 20 years ago.

"Bold Ruler leaped out of the gate like his tail was on fire. He would run until he dropped dead. But he didn't like to be rated. He was unmanageable. You had to fight him all around the track."

Despite his splotchy record — a series of front-running victories, including the Preakness, and defeats in the other two jewels of the Triple Crown, the Derby and Belmont Stakes — the fleet son of Nasrullah turned into one of racing's all-time great sires.

His most famous offspring, Secretariat, won the Derby in a sweep of the Triple Crown in 1973. Three grandsons — Cannonade, Foolish Pleasure and Bold Forbes — followed in the succeeding years in having the garland of roses draped over their necks.

Now comes Seattle Slew, a chocolate comet unbeaten in six starts, bidding to become the fifth straight Derby winner with the rich Bold Ruler strain coursing through his veins. Color the blood blue.

It is a racing phenomenon.

"I thought Seattle Slew ran a very impressive race in the Wood Memorial," Arcaro said, referring to the colt's 3¼-length victory at Aqueduct last Saturday. "But I still don't know how far he can go."

"After all, up until the race he had been worked no more than three quarters of a mile and timed in 1:11 2-5, which is not sensational. The trainer, Billy Turner, told me afterward that he had run a short horse. Why?"

"I still wonder what he can do over the 1¼ mile Derby distance and possibly against better opposition. Down in Kentucky, the hard boots are high on this horse, Giboulee, who was a closing second to Slew in the Flamingo."

Wagner sees revival after 23 runs

CINCINNATI (AP) — The man responsible for the Cincinnati Reds' $1.6 million starting lineup is confident the world champions can overcome their worst start in six years.

"We're good enough that we'll be in the thick of things later in the summer," said Dick Wagner, who as Reds general manager doled out the staggering bankroll needed to keep the club intact.

Wagner views the situation simply as a matter of weathering a rough storm.

"A lot of clubs have made great recoveries after poor starts. The St. Louis Cardinals did it in 1964 and the New York Mets came from way back in 1969," said Wagner, cheered by the Reds' 23-9 rout of Atlanta Monday night.

The '64 Cards came from an 11-game deficit on August 24 to overtake the Philadelphia Phillies on their way to a world championship. And the Miracle Mets were 8½ games back in mid-May the year they claimed their only World Series title.

fast starting Los Angeles.

"Our problem is obvious. We haven't played well defensively, offensively and the pitching at times has been ordinary. Our performance speaks for itself," he said.

Going into the Atlanta series, the Big Red Machine had been out-hit 136-118 and out-scored 69-53 while permitting 4.83 runs per game.

The team that led the majors with the highest batting average in decades was hitting only .253 prior to its invasion of Atlanta Stadium.

"It's just a matter of getting the ship righted and going on from there," he said.

He compares the early season slump with an athletic performer who has lost his timing. "Golfers go through it, basketball players, too. Our misfortune is we've had all our slumping together," said Wagner.

It marks the worst Cincinnati start since 1971 when the Reds lost 11 of their first 16 games and never recovered, finishing fourth.

"We just have to dig in," said Wagner.

Arcaro, looking 20 years younger than his 61, was in New York over the weekend to join in the ABC commentary of the Wood, make some recordings for New York's Off-Track Betting and try out some eastern golf courses. The golf venture was spoiled by a blast of winter weather and rain which caught the famed saddlesmith without a topcoat.

Arcaro's experiences with Bold Ruler and an ingrained faith in heredity prevents the former jockey from giving Seattle Slew his carte blanche approval.

"My natural feeling would be that this horse wouldn't go the distance," he said. "Of course, Bold Ruler was not fully sound. He had a rheumatic condition. He had great speed but was inclined to bear out if you tried to hold him back."

"But blood lines can fool you. Secretariat could run 10 miles. Cannonade, Foolish Pleasure and Bold Forbes — they proved they could run and stay. Maybe Seattle Slew can do the same."

Cincinnati pulverizes Atlanta, 23-9

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

The awakening Cincinnati Reds did not wash away their frustrations Monday night. Instead, they almost washed away the Atlanta Braves.

Apparently determined to prove that anything the Los Angeles Dodgers can do, they can do better, the world champion Reds, who had scored only 25 runs in their previous seven games and went to Atlanta with a four-game losing streak and an embarrassing 4-10 record, unloaded 18 hits and buried the Braves 23-9.

Gen. Sherman could not have sacked Atlanta any better, although the Dodgers teed off on the Braves' beleaguered pitching staff for 16 runs and 16 hits Sunday.

"You don't wash away frustrations with games like these, you do it by winning 2-1 games," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, who benched All-Star catcher Johnny Bench Sunday and threatened to seat other non-producers.

"I'd rather see a well-played game than one like this one. Don't get me wrong, I like to win any way we can, but the other kind pleases me more. This kind is nice when you're on the right end of it, but I don't enjoy them because when you're on the other end it's not very pleasant."

In the only other National League game, the Dodgers whipped the San Diego Padres 7-3 as Ron Cey walloped his sixth and seventh home runs of the season. The St. Louis-Chicago game was postponed by cold weather.

In the American League, the New York Yankees defeated the Baltimore Orioles 9-6, the California Angels trimmed the Oakland A's 11-6 and the Boston Red Sox edged Toronto 6-5 after the Blue Jays won the opener of a doubleheader 4-3.

The Reds scored six runs in the first inning and erupted for 12 runs in the fifth, tying a modern NL fifth-inning record and scoring the most runs against the Braves since they moved from Milwaukee to Atlanta in 1966.

George Foster drove in seven runs with a three-run homer in the first inning, a run-scoring double in the second and an RBI single as well as a two-run homer in the fifth. Bench and Cesar Geronimo also homered.

The Reds' onslaught made it easy for pitcher Jack Billingham although he was reached for 17 hits and all nine Atlanta runs in eight innings.

Dodgers 7, Padres 3

Cey drove in three runs with his two homers and Rick Rhoden won his third straight game with a seven-hitter. Cey, who has hit in all 15 Dodgers' games, increased his National League-leading RBI total to 25, a club record for the month of April.

Randy Jones, last year's Cy Young Award-winner, took the loss and dropped to 1-3. Steve Garvey also homered and Davey Lopes rapped three hits as the Dodgers won for the 10th time in their last 11 games. Dave Winfield and Gary Sutherland homered for the Padres.

Don't Neglect Hunger Pains

I get hunger pains in the middle of the day. Does this mean that I have an ulcer? — Mr. T.Y., Minn.

Dear Mr. Y.:

Occasional hunger pains, even those that are relieved by food, do not necessarily mean that you have a stomach ulcer. Hunger pains, in most instances, are due to the fact that the stomach is empty. With nothing in the stomach, the muscles have nothing to contract down on. It is for this reason that most hunger pains are relieved by eating something.

Doctors do consider the periodic "cyclic" hunger pains as a possible indication of a peptic ulcer of the stomach or the small intestine (duodenum).

The fact that eating relieves hunger pains is very significant as a diagnostic sign. When such a history is given to a doctor, he follows through with X-ray studies of the stomach and intestines. This, of course, is the positive way to determine if someone has an ulcer.

It has always been said that the stomach is a very sympathetic neighbor. Problems in the gall bladder or in the pancreas may reflect themselves with vague gnawing sensations. Repeated bouts of hunger pains should not be neglected.

Can syphilis occur in the elderly as well as in the young? — Mrs. D.W., N.C.

Lengthy bidding sequences are generally undesirable because of the greatly increased chance that one player or the other will make a mistake somewhere along the line.

Consider this deal where North-South made eleven bids to get to a slam. Six clubs was a dreadful contract — the odds were about 8 to 1 against making the slam!

What makes a great photograph stand out as a great photograph? Many people would not recognize a great picture if they saw it, while many more would immediately recognize its greatness, but they'd fail to note what set it apart from the other stuff. It should be obvious that technical excellence is necessary first of all. If the shot is fuzzy or poorly exposed or poorly processed it's eliminated at the outset. Beyond that, however, it must adhere to the rules of good composition and balance. Another factor we call IMPACT — the picture must have impact to be classed "great."

Want to see some truly great photographs? Well, many of the pictures made by Alfred Eisenstaedt would be classed as great. Joe Rosenthal's shot of the U. S. Marines raising the flag on Iwo Jima is great, as is Max Desfor's shot of Korean refugees swarming over the shattered girders of a bridge at Pyongyang. In the early days Life magazine had some photographers that turned out great pix, but in its last days the only good photographs were in the advertisements. Back about 25 years ago the RECORD HERALD had a young photographer named Hap Vercamp who did some news stuff that was really great. More recently we've seen some work by Ed Summers that would be considered great. Ed has that eye for composition that few naturally possess. Dale Wade has this natural feel for good composition. Martha Bireley is another who just naturally finds the proper composition for a great shot.

Don't give up if you don't seem to have the ability to find the good shot because we've seen many who have learned to see good pix. There's always something to learn in photography; that's what makes it a great hobby.

Law on parochial aid fought

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lawyer representing Ohioans challenging a state law that provides up to $88 million in materials and services for non-public schools told the U.S. Supreme Court Monday that the statute is a sham for avoiding constitutional separation of church and state.

"It does not suffice to say the loans are being made to students and parents," attorney Joshua J. Kancelbaum of Cleveland told the justices in challenging the 1975 Ohio law.

Kancelbaum argued that the state legislature passed the law providing for loans of materials to students and not to nonpublic schools after a Supreme Court ruling in a Pennsylvania case outlawed use of taxpayer dollars for such loans directly to schools.

He said private schools in Ohio are "overwhelmingly sectarian" with 720 of 749 private schools in the state religiously affiliated.

Kancelbaum represents a group of Ohio taxpayers trying to have the law struck down as an "end run" around past court rulings against establishment of religion.

Defending the state law before the nation's highest court were Ohio Asst.

Atty. Gen. Thomas V. Martin and Columbus attorney David J. Young.

Martin said the state believes it has overcome limitations placed on it by previous court decisions. Young, who represents the parents of students who attend private schools, called the law an "honest, genuine" attempt to structure aid to children under the court's guidance.

The Ohio law before 1975 allowed for certain health and other services to be provided by state employees on the grounds of private schools. The new law changed that practice in most instances, and now the tests and services are provided at a neutral site away from the private school premises.

Young said the state law should not be scrapped because of "assumed abuses," and argued that all types of aid available under the law—textbooks and other learning materials, diagnostic programs, therapy services and field trip transportation—are aimed at students and are not being used for religious purposes.

"The Ohio program is a neutral program of secular assistance," he said.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger appeared less than convinced by Kancelbaum's arguments as he peppered the attorney with questions.

Justice Potter Stewart, who wrote the court's majority opinion in the Pennsylvania case, and Thurgood Marshall seemed to be leaning the other way as they pressed Martin and Young to explain how the state's law can be implemented without undue entanglement of government and religion.

In rape-kidnap trial

Witnesses continue testimony

Witnesses were still being called late Tuesday morning in the rape-kidnap trial of Richard G. Wilt in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Wilt, 41, of 10310 Allen Road, was arrested Dec. 13 for allegedly abducting and raping his former wife, Mrs. Barbara Wilt of Xenia.

The trial began Monday afternoon after a 12-member jury was selected. Most of the afternoon was devoted to Mrs. Wilt's testimony. She was called to the witness stand by Fayette County assistant prosecuting attorney John H. Roszmann and then cross-examined by her ex-husband's attorney Robert L. Brubaker. Judge Evelyn W. Coffman is presiding.

Mrs. Wilt told the court that she had a date the night of Dec. 11 and went to a restaurant and then to a Dayton motel. When she left the motel at approximately 8 a.m. the next morning, her ex-husband and two other men were parked near her car.

She testified that the car followed her car east on U.S. 35 into Xenia. The car then bumped her car "several times" in the rear, she said. She then drove to the Greene County Sheriff's Department in Xenia and reported the incident to Deputy Warren Hawk.

Hawk also took the stand Monday and told the court that Mrs. Wilt did ask him for assistance and reported the bumping incident. He said that Richard Wilt's car had pulled up behind Mrs. Wilt's car during this time.

Deputy Hawk recalled that he went to the other car to ask Wilt "what the problem was." Wilt reportedly said that Mrs. Wilt had custody of his children and he wanted to know where the children were. He relayed the message to Mrs. Wilt, who told the deputy that the children were with her grandparents in Frankfort. Hawk then returned to Wilt's car and told him where the children were. "He appeared satisfied," Hawk said.

Hawk also added that Mrs. Wilt did not wish to file a complaint against her ex-husband for the bumping incident.

During Mrs. Wilt's testimony, she told how she had to follow her ex-husband's car on U.S. 35 east to Washington C.H. in order to get to Frankfort.

She claims she repeatedly attempted to pass his car, but he swerved over into the passing lane each time. She then stated that she turned down the Allen Road near the intersection of U.S. 35 and Interstate 71 in an attempt to get to Frankfort by a different route without having to follow Wilt's auto.

She then testified that Wilt turned his car around and followed it down the Allen Road. A short time later, she said, he pulled his car in front of her auto and she had to stop. He then allegedly come back to her car and forced the door open. In the meantime the other auto left the scene.

She then claimed that he drove her car to his home on the Allen Road and raped her a number of times. She testified that she was released the next day.

During the day, she claimed that she went to a local restaurant with her ex-husband and tried to make a telephone call. But, he allegedly forced her back in the car and drove back to his residence.

She also testified that at one point during the day Wilt held a gun to her head.

"He put a pistol up to my head and asked me if I thought I should die," she told the court. She added that she asked if he was going to kill her and he said he wasn't sure what he was going to do with her.

Roszmann entered a pistol as evidence over the objections of Brubaker.

Mrs. Wilt stated that after she was given the keys to her car she drove to Xenia. Then, her father and mother drove her to the Fayette County Sheriff's Department to file the auto complaint.

Prayer breakfast draws 28 persons

Twenty-five teens and three teachers were in attendance at the teen prayer breakfast held at the South Side Church of Christ Tuesday morning. Maurice Pfeifer, principal at Washington Senior High School, spoke on "Giving Thanks Through Suffering", during the meditation period.

Jowanda Vernon, a sophomore at Miami Trace High School, led the singing, accompanied by Marilyn Creamer, a senior at Miami Trace. Miss Vernon offered the prayer for the food.

Following the breakfast of scrambled eggs, sausage, blueberry muffins and milk, Jon Creamer, a teacher at Washington Senior High School, gave a devotional thought on "The Two Most Important Rules or Laws in the Bible". He said, "When you accept these rules, you will have a different attitude concerning the teachings found in the Bible."

The next prayer breakfast will be on May 3 at 6:45 a.m. The last prayer breakfast of the year will be May 17. On that date, all eighth graders are invited to attend. All teens, grades nine through 12, are invited regularly as well as any teachers. The teen prayer breakfast exists solely on contributions from interested persons and organizations.

Skyride accident investigated

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP) — Officials at Kings Island Amusement Center said they are still investigating the malfunction of a ski lift skyride that stranded 45 persons for up to eight hours Sunday.

"We still don't know what caused three gondolas to bunch together at a pylon," park spokeswoman Ruth Voss said Monday.

"They are looking at everything and the hope now is that we can get the ride running by Saturday," she said.

The ride was shut down shortly after high winds and heavy rain hit the area, which is located 30 miles northeast of Cincinnati.

No one was injured, but firemen from five communities needed cherry picker rigs and aerial ladders to rescue persons from the 19 stranded gondolas, several of which were more than 95 feet above the ground.

The last persons removed from the ski cars were two Muncie, Ind., teenagers, Mark McAdams, 19, and Bentley Orr, 18.

"Complete concentration kept us warm," said McAdams of their ordeal. "It started to rain when the car first stalled. Then it got really cold when the rain started up, the car we were in had to be swinging about three feet both ways. Firemen had to get on the building before us and shoot blankets up with a gun."

Both were rescued after midnight by a special crane brought in from Cincinnati.
